

Hayley Moore is a recently graduated master's student who completed her degree in English and American Studies at Osnabrück University. Previous to that she was studying Applied Foreign Languages in Strasbourg, France and before that, growing up in a sunburnt country. It is only away from her home land that she truly began to examine it with the interest of an outsider and the passion of a local. Now she travels, gathering knowledge where she can.