

Call for a PhD Research Stay at the University of Cologne

2023

Be part of the NiReMas project by building up long-term internationalization and research management structures between Nigeria and Germany.

The NiReMaS project aims to build up research management structures and international research networks between Nigeria and Germany.

There is an opportunity to come to Cologne for an up to three month research stay to develop a research proposal and build up a relevant network. During your research stay you should be supported by an academic advisor.

An important selection criterion is therefore the research synergy between your research and research done at the University of Cologne. Please describe in your application how your research is linked to a possible academic advisor here in Cologne. For more information you can contact us or the coordinator of the NiReMaS project at your university.
